George F. Bretz.

On last Friday at 7 o'clock, p. m., death came to one of our city and claimed as its own, George F. Bretz, who suffered for a few days only with that dreaded disease, pneumonia.

Colonel Bretz, was known by everyone in the city, and was by many of the country people, as he was a very enthusiastic advocate of the farming and fruit growing industry, having represented a nursery company for many years. He was a man that loved his family with more than the ordinary love. He was a member of John G. Eve Post G. A. R. and Commander of same, and a hard worker for its advancement; he had served through all the offices of that Post. He was a soldier of the Civil War, and fought for the flag that he so loved. He was Junior Vice-Commander of the state Organization of the G. A. R. and was Aid De Camp upon the Staff of the Adjutant General of the United States.

He has been a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church since he was 13 years old, and left the assurance that he was soon to join the grand encampment in that land where reunions never adjourn.

Colonel Bretz, was born in Cincinnati, Ohio, February 23, 1846, and died on the 2nd day of April, 1915, being 69 years old. He leaves a wife, two sons and a daughter, and two step-sons, and an innumerable host of friends to mourn their loss.

Col. Bretz will be missed not only by his immediate family, but by the many friends that he had in this as well as in other communities.

COLSON

Mrs. Fanny Colson died March 23rd, leaving two sons and one daughter and a host of friends to mourn their loss.

"Aunt Fanny" as she was commonly known, was one of our best citizens. She was born April 18, 1840, and was at the time of her death more than 74 years old. One of the older ones are passing away, the white as well as the colored, and the place that knows us will soon know us no more.

A woman's character can be accurately established by the amount of jewelry she wears and the manner in which she dresses, acts and wiggles.

Whenever there is a strenuous objection to the searchlight of inspection being turned on either public or private institutions it is reasonable to suppose, there is something rotten wrong, and I believe there is.

New School Building

Dr. W. C. Black, Chairman of the board of trustees tells us that bids for purchase of school bonds will be received until May 1st, and on that date same will be sold to some reliable individual or company.

Plans are in possession of the board and being studied preparatory to employing architect, letting contract, and thereby saving time. Work is expected to begin not later than June 15th, on the new high school building.

WARREN

Last Monday morning while preparing to go to the table for bread, Mrs. Rachel Warren, fell dead. She had been in feeble condition for several weeks, but heart trouble was the direct cause of her death. She was the wife of Thomas J. Warren of Dewitt, Mo., a much respected and well known citizen. Her neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Miller, of Lewis, Mo., who are her husband's relatives, are mourning her death, but in her pure character, she lived, we are sure, that her death is not eternal.

Masonic Sign Saves

50 Belgian Already Lined Up To Be Shot

Ostend, (Via London)—The power of Free Masonry is illustrated by a story told here by a citizen of Louvain, who with the Masonic sign, says he saved fifty of his fellow citizens from being shot to death by German troops. This group of citizens, according to the report of the Belgian Mason, had been lined up for execution. The German firing party had their rifles at "present arms" when the narrator gave a Masonic sign. The German officer commanding the firing squad happened to belong to the craft. He recognized a brother Mason and ordered the Louvain Free Mason to leave the ranks. The moment saving his life. The Louvain citizen, however, refused to go.

"My fellow citizens are no more guilty than I am. If you are going to kill them I shall be with them." The German officer thereupon ordered the release of the entire party. — Louisville Herald.

Holiness Meeting

Rev. M. G. Disney and I. D. Mooncham, of Barbourville, held services in the Court House, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. Mr. Ralph Martin a vocalist and also of Barbourville accompanied them. Rev. Disney the speaker of the three is a man of strong character and a firm speaker.

A large crowd was in attendance each night. They left for Barbourville Thursday morning. — Clark County Clarion.

It may appear very manly, courageous and great for a bunch of men to congregate in a house of worship and pass resolutions condemning the women of the underworld, but in the eyes of any sane person, it would look much better to also take drastic action the rotten, stinking he-devil that in ninety-nine cases out of every hundred was the cause of her downfall.

Killed by Train

Last Sunday morning Train No. 22 on the L. & N. North bound struck Wiley Cotton, son of James Cotton, killing him almost instantly.

It seems that the train was coming down the grade at Humber when this young man who was on the right-of-way stepped in front of the train after it was too late to stop in time to avert the danger of the young man.

He was brought here by the train crew, and Capt. William Griever, who was in charge of the train did all he could for the young man, but before medical aid could reach Cotton he was dead.

James Cotton, father of the young man, lives on Fighting Creek about two miles from this city; he is a very poor man and needed the assistance of the young man, but fate has it that his father will have to get along without him.

It is said by those who witnessed the accident that it was unavoidable, and that there is no one to blame for it.

Cooper To Have Big Bread Line

Proceeds From Sale of Celebrated Tanlac to Feed Poor

Louisville April 8th. L. T. Cooper, the noted "Tanalac Man," will establish and maintain, at his own personal expense, a "bread line" in Louisville this winter. Mr. Cooper conceived and began executing this idea as quietly as he performed his remarkable relief work among the Dayton flood sufferers in 1913.

Louisville will, therefore, be unique in its relation with the rest of the country, because this city will have the only "bread line" outside of New York and maybe a few other larger cities of the world, where the plan has been established and is now maintained by the charitable organizations.

Mr. Cooper spent the afternoon looking over several available locations for the "bread line" and he will probably be prepared to state definitely by today just where the work will be carried on. He has also been in communication with local bakers, and an agreement with reference to the bread and coffee supply has been practically reached.

Mr. Cooper, who is one of the most magnanimous of men, has always been in sympathy with the poor and unfortunate. The "bread line" will therefore be only another exemplification of his nature. A large percentage of the profits from the sale of his celebrated preparation, Tanlac, the medicine that is accomplishing such remarkable results in cases of catarrh, stomach, liver and kidney troubles, will be devoted to charity and her children in this city.

In commenting upon this great undertaking, Mr. Cooper said:

"Since a mere boy, I have always been inclined to help those who were less fortunate than myself, and in each city I visit I have invariably shown my sympathy for the poor by performing some service at my own personal expense that would bring a bit of genuine charity directly to them. I can, therefore, imagine nothing, among the several charitable plans I now have in mind, that will prove of as much benefit as a 'bread line.' The necessary details connected with the plan will be perfected by me this week.

Tanalac, the celebrated medicine now being introduced by Mr. Cooper, can be bought in Barbourville at Herndon Drug Company.—Adv.

HOW UNCLE SAM FEEDS HIS SAILORS

THE NAVY MENU: HOW PURCHASED, PREPARED AND FINALLY SERVED

BY W. B. RYAN

IF the little boy who is an admirer of Uncle Sam's sailors in the navy, and who is proud to see the flag of his country flying from the mast of a battleship, has ever seen a sailor in the navy, he has seen a man who is not only a good cook, but a good sailor. And you have seen a man who is not only a good cook, but a good sailor. And you have seen a man who is not only a good cook, but a good sailor.

One of the most important factors contributing to the health of the navy is the food. The "ration" as the three meals a day are termed. It is the foundation of food hygiene that the other health giving factors in our nation's men's daily routine find a perfect base on which to build.

The ration components are fixed by law, which specifically states what articles of food and how much of each shall be served to the enlisted personnel daily. Thus the table is set to provide the different items of food and see that they are prepared in a manner calculated to make them most attractive and nutritious.

Marketing for the navy has been evolved into a most elaborate and self-sufficient system, and when it is considered that the navy must be able to provide for over 50,000 men every day it is apparent that the task is no small one. Like the wise, disorganizing housewife, the government demands and gets always the best in quality and purity in every article of food that is purchased for the men. Take, for example, from among the innumerable items comprising the ration, the principal item, meat. This one item is purchased in great quantities, from 500,000 to 1,000,000 pounds being put in frequently purchased in one time. This meat, including several kinds, such as beef, pork, veal, fowl, etc., is purchased after advertising for bids which must be based on carefully prepared specifications that will result in only the best products the markets of the world afford being accepted. When the contract has been consummated and deliveries commence, expert inspectors are detailed to see that the smallest detail of the specifications is a quality, purity, etc., is rigidly complied with. The meat is then packed in crates and shipped to the fleet. The crates are marked with the name of the ship and the name of the man who is responsible for the meat. The meat is then unpacked and served to the men. The meat is then unpacked and served to the men. The meat is then unpacked and served to the men.

Nor does food inspection cease at this point, for the navy has a food inspection officer on every ship. This officer is responsible for the quality of the food and for the health of the men. The food inspection officer is responsible for the quality of the food and for the health of the men.

And so it is that when the navy's market basket is filled, the contents are such as would make the most discerning food expert sparkle with pleasure. The same degree of care and system which is bestowed in filling the food supply is also in the preparation of the food for the sailors' table. This work is delegated to a corps of skilled, efficient cooks and bakers, whose culinary ability and who are trained in the art of preparing food in a most efficient manner.

And these men know their art well, for they are given a very comprehensive course of study and practical work in these branches of domestic science at the training station at Newport or San Juan before they qualify for the rating of their vocation on board ship, where, under the direction of a commissioned officer of the Pay Corps, they take bread and pies and conduct all manner of tempting dishes which may good housewife would be proud to acknowledge as her own product, with the result that the live manner as the family table at home is administered, and every one is sure of getting just as much of every thing as he wants.

The daily bill of fare is by no means stereotyped, for it varies every day and is never the same this week as it was the week before.

In contrast with the present day general mess aboard ship it is interesting to look back and see how a hundred years ago our sailors lived in this respect. In those days the men did not have tables upon which to eat, but spread a "mess cloth" upon the deck. In those days the men did not have tables upon which to eat, but spread a "mess cloth" upon the deck. In those days the men did not have tables upon which to eat, but spread a "mess cloth" upon the deck.

THE MISSIONARY MOVEMENT

We received a clipping from someone the other day that reads as follows:

Beginning January 3rd at Reed in the Louisville Diocese and at Concord in the Covington Diocese Rev. J. J. Devery and Rev. J. Canon Allard have begun the work of the missionary movement in Kentucky for 1915 and both report splendid results. The week of January 10 they preached at Harrodsburg and Warrenton. During the lectures one hundred copies of "The Faith of Our Fathers" by Cardinal Gibbons will be distributed by Father Devery, which were given him for that purpose by Father Ferry, pastor of one of the parishes in which he is preaching.

Arrangements have also been made for another mission in Barbourville where the anti-Catholic "Mountain Advocate" is published. Last year Father Allard appeared there and this winter he will be done by Father Devery. These parents have secured excellent results this winter and the splendid results obtained in the past year will continue, as have the thoroughly familiar with what is required of them, as every citizen in the state has responded to the call for funds with which to finance their efforts. They are members of the Catholic order and receive no compensation for their services excepting their expenses.

In the various communities where they appear as missionaries their primary purpose is to show those who come to hear them that the Roman Catholic teaching is not as depicted by anti-Catholic sources, but entirely different, and to expound its doctrines so that they may be correctly understood. The object is not to make converts, but to present to the public the real teachings of the church.

Resolutions

To the Citizens of Barbourville: Whereas, the City Board of Education, realizing the necessity of a New City High School building, have unanimously voted to issue bonds for said building and are now taking steps for erection of same, and

Whereas, during their term of office, the members of the City Board have shown themselves to be faithful in their efforts to serve the people and deserving the highest commendation of the citizens of the district, and

Whereas, the cost of equipment of said building will depend largely upon the sentiment and personal donations of our citizens since all the available money from taxes should be used in erecting the building.

Whereas, the training and education of our posterity will greatly depend upon the outcome of this proposition, therefore be it

Good Stories and Useful Information

In two thing The Youth's Companion is first and foremost—capital stories and useful information. There are stories for boys that delight their fathers, stories for girls that charm their mothers. There are stories that make you hold your sides, and stories that move you to tears. And it is a liberal education to read what The Companion offers you in sound, practical, trustworthy information. All of it—fiction and information—is chosen and printed with with the one aim of leaving the reader better and wiser, if possible, than he was before. Hundreds of thousands of readers will cheerfully say that of The Companion. How many periodicals can honestly say that of themselves? Only a handful. Test the matter for yourself. Send for sample copies. Better yet, send $2.00 for 12 issues of the coming year. You won't regret it.

When Words Burn Deep. It is with words as with stings—the more they are condensed, the deeper they burn.—Robert Southey.

There may be a chance for a woman that doesn't have a baby to make in the promised land, but don't think so.

If I could hear a woman say she despised babies, I'd have to walk around her twelve times and make a very close inspection before I'd believe she was a real woman. I'd rather make a quiet dinner out of a cross cut, than try to build a happy home with a woman who hates babies. Woman like that couldn't handle a bass any more than you can put up a box of soap when you are in a hurry. They'd make a first rate hand to bite a dog or a black bear, but she couldn't tell where to set in to make a home.

If such women are going to be seen galloping about on the golden streets, then I pray the good Lord to send me off on a vacation. The idea of being compelled to associate throughout all eternity with women who had preferred poodle dogs to babies would make me tired. It would be a deeper damnation to me than spike-headed devils and burning brimstone. I'd rather be in hades with ten thousand women who loved their homes and babies, than own a four horse-power crown, and two pairs of white wings in a city paraded by pride-polluted female furies whose hearts on earth were anchored down to poodles and pussy cats.
